

METHODS AND SYSTEMS FOR IDENTIFYING SIGNALS-OF-INTEREST

ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

Signals-of-interest are identified by distinguishing such signals from signals constituting environmental or internal receiver noise. A received signal is rapidly sampled in order to set a dynamic, system threshold. Signals above the threshold constitute signals-of-interest.